ABSTRACT

An implantable cardiac stimulation device capable of delivering ESS, monitoring for myocardial ischemia and responding to the detection of myocardial ischemia by modifying the delivery of ESS. Modification of ESS delivery may include disabling ESS, initiating ESS, and/or modifying ESS control parameters.